

ABSTRACT

Apparatus, and an associated method for a sending station operable in a communication system having a communication channel susceptible to fading, such as quasistatic fading. Transmission diversity of 5 symbols to be sent by the sending station is increased without necessitating a corresponding increase in the bandwidth required to communicate the symbols.

005201" 25496960